7 Questions You Should Ask an Equipment Financing Company

We've been conditioned to begin any financing conversation with "what's the rate?" And the rate is definitely critical information to consider. But if that's the only question you ask, you probably aren't finding the best equipment financing option for your small business.

Here are 7 questions you probably aren't asking, but should be.

1. What's the monthly payment?

For small businesses, cash flow is king. Comparing rates can seem like a good way to evaluate a financing option, but if the monthly payment doesn't fit your revenue expectations and cash flow, then it isn't the right fit for you.

2. What's your Google rating?

You want to work with a reputable financing company—you'll be working with them for a while. A quick Google search should show you a company's rating and recent reviews (if it doesn't, that's a red flag). Don't just take your seller's word for it. Read reviews and recommendations from other small business owners.

3. Are there seller limitations? Or can I take my approval anywhere?

Some financing companies will get you approved and then tell you they only work with select equipment sellers. If you aren't committed to buying your equipment from a particular seller, keep your options open with a financing option that will transfer your approval to any equipment seller of your choosing.

4. Do you work with small businesses? What about start-ups?

Many financing companies (especially the old-school options like banks) won't approve small businesses and start-ups. They require 2 years in business, have revenue minimums, or won't finance what they consider "small purchases" (many won't finance less than $50,000).

5. What's your average turnaround time?

How long will it take to get approved? Once I'm approved, how long will paperwork take? Do I need to leave the seller's warehouse and come back later? Once I've signed on the dotted line, how long until my seller gets paid and ships the equipment? Your business may be able to wait for equipment, but delays are worse when they're unexpected.

6. What information will I need to provide? Will this hurt my credit?

Ask questions to know what the application and approval process looks like. Do you need to come prepared with bank statements? Business incorporation records? Balance sheets? Also beware: sometimes just applying for financing can ding your personal credit score! Not all financing companies do a hard credit check, but it's something to be aware of.

7. What are the terms?

There's more to financing terms than the rate and payment amounts. Make sure you know the timeline you're committing to, any collateral and guarantor requirements, who owns the equipment, and how maintenance and warranties work.

5 Steps to Financing with Clicklease

Step 1:

Find Your Equipment

Shop for the equipment you need. Clicklease works with thousands of equipment sellers around the country. And if your preferred seller doesn't work with Clicklease yet, we can get them signed up in just a few minutes.

Step 2:

Apply with Clicklease

Fill out the fast and easy 8-question application to get the financing you need. It's risk-free and won't hurt your credit.

Step 3:

Get Approved

Get your approval decision within seconds of submitting your application. Our 100% automated process gets you approved faster than anyone else in the industry. You'll see your approval amount and estimated monthly payments right in the application.

(Some customers may encounter an additional step that asks for more information about your bank and payment history. This step helps us approve customers we would otherwise decline. We don't gain access to your bank account, and the information is not saved.)

Step 4:

Sign Your Documents

Once the seller sends us your invoice, we'll create a lease agreement. Our e-sign process lets you review the fine print and sign whenever you're ready. Sign the lease agreement, upload a picture of your driver's license, and you're good to go!

Step 5:

Get Your Equipment

We pay your selected seller directly for your equipment, so you'll get the equipment just as fast as if you paid cash. The seller will deliver your equipment right away.

Why Customers Choose Clicklease

"I couldn't be any more thankful for Clicklease and what they've done for my company. Some of my pressure washing equipment broke down and I didn't have the funds to buy anything else. I was only making $25,000 a year. My credit's not very good. But despite all that, Clicklease gave me a chance.

I was able to get upgraded equipment which helped me land higher paying jobs and this year I'm on track to make over $100,000. Without their help, it would have taken me years to recover from that broken down equipment."
